SCARDA Inaugural Workshop, February 20-21, 2007

An inaugural planning workshop for the Strengthening Capacity for Agricultural Research and Development in Africa (SCARDA) programme was hosted by FARA in Accra on February 20-21, 2007.

The workshop focused on planning the scoping studies and consultation workshops that will be carried out during the 6-month inception phase, by the end of which the collaborators are expected to present a convincing proposal for accomplishing SCARDA's purpose, which is 'to strengthen the institutional and human capacity of African agricultural research systems to identify, generate and deliver research outputs that meet the needs of poor people'.

Some key recommendations include:

Careful targeting of the available resources: The objective is to enable agricultural research and extension institutions to be more effective and achieve greater impact by adopting multi institutional innovation systems approaches that will involve all actors in the agricultural value chains. The institutions that will benefit directly from SCARDA and the package of capacity strengthening activities they will therefore be determined by the outcome of institutional analyses.

SCARDA priorities and emphases: Special attention will be given to the need to strengthen capacities for gender analyses to improve approaches to gender issues in agricultural research and development and to the needs of institutions in countries emerging from conflict.

Functionality of the NARS: SCARDA will improve and strengthen the linkages between universities and national agricultural research institutes and public and private extension agencies to raise their collective capacity for agricultural innovation.

Linkages with other initiatives: SCARDA will build on existing capacity building networks and institutions.

SADC-FARA Secretariat consultation, 21 February

His Excellency (HE) Dr Tomaz A. Salomao, Executive Secretary of SADC met with FARA core team led by Dr. Monty Jones, Executive Secretary of FARA. The purpose of the meeting is to provide an update of FARA activities being conducted in Southern Africa through SADC-FANR. FARA is grateful to the support provided by SADC on this collaboration for the past 3 years. FARA engages with AU and NEPAD, to implement CAADP and FAAP through its five region-wide initiatives.

SADC E expressed their sincere gratitude for FARA's support in strengthening capacity of SADC-FANR, in particular the appointment of the core team for SADC - MAPP. SADC recognizes the importance of partnerships and a consolidated effort in improving agricultural productivity in the region, as well as the challenge of linking farmers to markets, of which there is critical importance played by agricultural research in meeting the challenges. HE will be honoured to attend the FARA GA and give a welcoming speech.

3rd Biotechnology, breeding and seed systems Africa conference, 26-29 March

The conference held in Maputo Mozambique, was organized by the Rockefeller Foundation and gathered at least 500 breeders, biotechnologists, economists and CSO. Scientific papers were presented covering at least four topics i.e. seeds for farmers, breeding source materials, developing finished materials and input markets.

Most of the papers were presented by African scientists based in their own national research institutes. Posters were presented by some authors to informally discuss their scientific findings. Most of the papers presented were research funded by the Rockefeller foundation. Funding will continue through the AGRA program called PASS.

Dr. Jones is the chairman of the Scientific Advisory Committee. He chaired several sessions and gave the closing remarks.

Parliamentarian Network of the World bank – Session on agriculture, 17 March

A special session was held on agriculture during the annual parliamentarian network meeting of the World Bank. This is evidence that African leaders are starting to recognize the importance of agriculture in the economic development of the region. This attention given by the parliamentarians should be supported by development agenda of the World Bank.

The opening was made by Francisco Reifschneider who emphasized on four facts and challenges in agriculture.

The world development report 2008 was presented by Mark Cackler of the WB. He provided the overall framework of the report focusing on two issues i.e. economic growth and poverty alleviation. The World Development report will be presented and discussed in Bamako, Mali and will be released in October 2007.

Dr. Monty Jones presented agriculture and agricultural research for development in Africa. He discussed how agriculture in Africa has evolved and how the African leadership through the AU and NEPAD are leading the process since the start of the century. FARA as the technical arm of AU and NEPAD is leading pillar four. It has developed, together with its stakeholders FAAP as the implementation framework of pillar four.

The Minister of Agriculture of South Africa shared with the group the policies in agriculture for South Africa and how it is considered as an important sector for economic growth. The government will be increasing its investment in agricultural research (from 1% of GDP to more than 1.5%) and education. Training will focus on how small holder farmers could be more competitive and increase their productivity to move towards commercial agriculture. The government believes that to reduce the high unequal wealth distribution and reduce poverty, the right technologies and partnerships are crucial.

International Federation of Agricultural Producers (IFAP); 15th Session of the African Regional Committee, 19-25 March

FARA participated in the IFAP African Farmers Committee meeting 15th Session. During this meeting the IFAP African Farmers Committee adopted a recommendation on how farmers could actively participate in ARD by having a 'framework of engagement between IFAP and both International Agricultural research Institutions (CGIAR- Advanced Research Institutions) and Regional Agricultural research systems (FARA- sub regional Organisation (SROs) -Regional agricultural research centres).'

Upcoming FARA Secretariat events

- 11-16 June 2007. The 4th FARA's General Assembly and African Agricultural Science Week will be held in Johannesburg, South Africa. The detailed programmes and registration information are now posted on www.faraweek.org. Those interested in participating are encouraged to register online as soon as possible.

For more information on the above events, please contact Dr. Monty Jones by email: mjones@fara-africa.org.

New Face at FARA

Aissètou Dramé Yayé - SCARDA Interim Programme Officer

Born in Mali, Aissètou Dramé Yayé is Senegalese by birth and Nigerian by adoption. She holds a B.S. in Forestry (from the Academia of Agriculture of Krakow in Poland), two Master degrees respectively in Animal Biology (from the Faculty of Science of the University Cheikh Anta Diop of Dakar, Senegal) and in the Use of New Information and Communication Technologies in Education (Distance learning Master from the University Louis Pasteur of Strasbourg, France), and a PhD in Entomology (obtained at the Zoology Department of the University of Ghana). She worked in forestry development projects in Senegal and in Niger before coming to tertiary education. She started as a training expert in Entomology at the AGRHYMET Center before becoming, since 2000, a lecturer in Forest Management, Agroforestry and Forest Entomology at the Faculty of Agriculture of the University Abdou Moumouni of Niamey in Niger. At the same time, she did several consultation studies for the Economic Community of Africa (on Sustainable development), for Action Aid and ROPPA (on food Security), and for the African Network for Agriculture, Agroforestry and Natural Resources Education (ANAFE) (on the evaluation of tertiary Education in West Africa). She was elected the ANAFE Sahel Chair by the representatives of the eleven member institutions during the ANAFE Sahel General Assembly held in Bamako (Mali) in October 2006. She is a member of a multidisciplinary and North/South research team working on the promotion of farmer innovations and initiatives in Niger. She is married to a nice Nigerian lawyer called Seini Yayé and they have two boys, Salim (14) and Idriss (10). Mrs. Yayé is also a Soroptimist. She enjoys dancing, reading and cooking. She is very happy to come back to her third country, Ghana, and she is sure that she will enjoy interacting with all FARA staff for the incoming five months.

Thomas Yeboah – Procurement Officer

Thomas Yeboah is a Ghanaian by birth. He holds a Post Graduate Diploma in Procurement and Materials Management and a professional certificate from the Chartered Institute of Purchasing and Supply, U.K. He has over eight years of working experience from Ghana Ports and Harbors Authority (GPHA) and the United States Agency for International Development (USAID/West Africa) as a Contract Specialist.
